Greetings All!

It is with immense pleasure that I pen my first message for the BELTA Newsletter after the newly elected Executive Committee started its journey in June 2019. At the outset, I express my gratitude to the editorial team and the contributors to the newsletter.

BELTA is a vibrant platform for our teachers and I hope you will find the various reports and write-ups in the newsletter useful, informative and interesting. These will give you a glimpse of what we have been involved with and how much it means to us and our stakeholders and beneficiaries – the English teaching community.

In the short span of six months, we have made considerable progress and have delivered six professional development programmes which were deemed to be successful based on the overwhelming feedback received from approximately 350 event participants.

We started with a work cum fun-filled retreat amidst nature at “Jol O Jongoler Kabbo”. We engaged in strategic planning and prepared the blueprint for the upcoming 9th BELTA International Conference scheduled for March 2020. We also drafted a schedule for our teacher development events. Our flagship programme – THT Seminar was greatly appreciated by our 200 plus teacher participants both at Dhaka and at Pabna. We remain ever grateful to Dr Patrick Dougherty and his dedicated team of volunteer teacher educators for their selfless and exemplary service to the development of Bangladeshi teachers. We were fortunate to have resource persons from India for our two Young Learners SIG event and Dr Sonia Sharmin’s contribution to the teacher development workshop on ‘Writing’ also deserves special mention.

This is just the beginning. We have to achieve much more together and we hope to make a difference. We certainly have to engage in formal long-term planning, obtaining sponsorship and membership drive and collaborating with the government in order to achieve BELTA’s strategic goals.

I am honoured to have the privilege of currently serving as President of BELTA. I am blessed to be part of a dedicated and energetic team of office bearers, members and volunteers who are committed to fulfil BELTA’s mission to serve the English teaching/learning community and help make a positive impact on the professional development of teachers.

On behalf of the BELTA Executive Committee, again, I thank the editors and contributors to this issue of the BELTA Newsletter. Thank you all for the tremendous work you do for BELTA and for our profession.

BELTA Academic Retreat

BELTA Retreat at Jol O Jongoler Kabbo

A team of 22 BELTA EC members went to ‘Jol O Jongoler Kabbo’ on August 31, 2019 to finalize BELTA strategic planning 2019-2021 amid the scenic beauty of Pubail, Gazipur. The program started with an insightful session on ‘the importance of strategic plan’ conducted by Dr Arifa Rahman. At the beginning, she discussed how impactful it might be for an institution to have well-defined vision and mission statements. She also emphasized that, along with vision and mission, it is important to have both short and long term SMART (Specific, Measurable, Achievable, Relevant/Realistic & Time Bound) goals with an in-depth SWOT (Strength, Weakness Opportunity & Threat) analysis. Having said so, Dr Arifa ended the session suggesting for a two year BELTA strategic plan, the reformation of teacher development committee, necessary actions for the success of upcoming conference, removing Presidency University address from BELTA website and updating BELTA brochure.

In the second phase of the program, two upcoming events, BELTA 9th International Conference and BELTA-THT Teacher Development Program, got much importance. The International Conference committee was led by Dr Arifa Rahman. The other members of the committee were Dr Shaila Sultana, Dr Naushaad Kabir, Dr Moninoor Rashid, Rabeya Binte Habib, Dr Akhter Jahan, Ahmed Bashir, and Golam Kader Zilany. The committee suggested of possible title, invited speakers, schedule, and registration scheme for the upcoming international conference.
The THT committee was led by Dr Rubina Khan. The other members of the THT committee were-Harunur Rashid Khan, Nanda Kumar Bipul, Shahnaz Akhter, Shahin Sultana, Sultana Nasrin Chowdhury, Ziaul Karim, Kushal Das and Moshiur Rahman. The committee covered the issues related to implementation of the two programs at Dhaka and Pabna. They also discussed about the tentative schedule of teacher development programs.

After the THT program plan, the committee also talked about different teacher development programs round the year.

Guest Faculty at Monash University

EC Member, BELTA at the School of Languages, Literature, Cultures and Linguistics, Monash University, Melbourne, Australia

BELTA is delighted that Professor Dr. Shaila Sultana - a member of the Executive Committee-was invited to attend Monash University as a Visitor in the School of Languages, Literature, Cultures and Linguistics, Faculty of Arts.

Professor Shaila Sultana visited Monash University, Melbourne, Australia on 7 October 2019 and stayed there until 26 October 2019. Her visit was primarily for research collaboration with Dr Brook Bolander, Co-Director, Master of Applied Linguistics. They looked into the relationship between language and nationalism and globalisation, based on ethnographic fieldwork amongst Bangladeshi youths from indigenous ethnic minority groups located in Dhaka, Bangladesh and Ismaili Muslims in Hunza, Northern Pakistan and Khorog, Eastern Tajikistan. They explored how historically and politically different languages negotiated hierarchies in the multilingual ecology of these countries, how youths from the indigenous ethnic minority groups located themselves with reference to these languages, and what multiple situated meanings of ‘mother tongue,’ ‘national language,’ ‘first language,’ ‘official language’ or other variants they discursively engendered. Professor Shaila Sultana and Dr Brook Bolander would share their findings in two top-tiered journals and contribute to the endeavour to re-theorise mother-tongue, nationalism and globalisation in critical sociolinguistics. In addition, Professor Shaila Sultana, PhD also acquainted undergraduate students, MPhil and PhD researchers, and faculty members with her own research areas through a lecture, Master Class, and seminar in LAL (Linguistics and Applied Linguistics) Seminar Series. At the personal level, the invited visit to Monash University was significantly meaningful for Professor Dr Shaila Sultana too. This allowed her to return to her alma mater after 19 years where she studied TESOL (Teaching English to Speakers of Other Languages) in 2000 as an AusAID Scholar.

“Stories About Ourselves”: Creating Graded Reading Materials for Bangladeshi Learners of English

Assistant Professor - EAP and BE Programmes, Akita International University, Japan

Who am I in English?

This important question is one we increasingly find ourselves considering, as we teach and learn English as a foreign language, both in Bangladesh, and in other countries where English is not the original national language.

It was this question that came to mind as I sought to prepare for the “Stories about Ourselves” workshop that I led during the 2018 BELTA/THT (Teachers Helping Teachers) event in Dhaka in September 2018.

To put this in context, we need to retrace our steps to 2017, and the NELTA conference in Kathmandu. There, I attended a presentation by Ms S. Akter and her colleague Ms T. Begum, two university academics from Dhaka.

As they explained their research project, demonstrating that “learners’ native culture- and context-based reading texts foster greater interaction in class reading activities,” I found myself beginning to form the germ of an idea. If someone, or several ‘someones’, could write short stories that closely reflect the cultural backgrounds, identities and experiences of Bangladeshi learners, together we could turn them into free EFL graded reading materials, with familiar content, for use in Bangladeshi classrooms.

Creating and providing more culturally appropriate graded reading materials would enable English teachers and learners in Bangladesh to select reading material at an appropriate learning level, and simultaneously deal with a key problem that learners of English outside so-called “inner circle” countries often have; that is the problem of trying to understand foreign cultural concepts and contexts at the same time as grappling with the ‘nuts and bolts’ of a new language - its strange vocabulary and grammar.

In other words, we would create stories that more closely reflect Bangladeshi learners themselves, instead of those that largely focus on British or North American content. By doing so, we could lighten the cognitive burden for our learners and make the learning process more directly relevant and hopefully more interesting to them.

By providing reading materials that mirror who our learners in Bangladesh are, their motivation to read would improve, the problem of trying to decode the cultural content simultaneously with understanding the target language would be resolved, and the experience of learning English would more accurately reflect our learners’ more immediate purposes and goals. Since most of our learners will use English within Bangladesh with other non-native speakers of English, our Bangladeshi focused stories would provide a new element of authenticity to our students’ overall language education.

Over the course of 2017 and 2018, and with the enthusiastic support of a small group of BELTA members and university teachers working in Dhaka, we held a three-hour project introduction workshop, and began our story writing project. Our goal was to create a website on which to post our graded stories, with related activities, that could be accessed freely by English language teachers and learners across Bangladesh.

Two years, much hard work, and many stories later, and with a lot of support from BELTA officers and members, we are at last on the verge of setting up our online presence. With the kind permission of the BELTA Executive Board, and the support of many helpers, we hope, in the coming year, to establish a specially dedicated space within the official BELTA website, where teachers and learners across Bangladesh can access our stories and resources. Once the site is live, and the stories are available to you, we will let you know.

In the meantime, we are continuing to write and prepare our stories for publication online. We do, however, need to continue to build our story bank. If you are interested in contributing original stories and/or photographs, please contact me for more information. The more stories we have, the better our site will be, and the more confidently our learners will eventually be able to answer the question with which we began, “Who am I… in English.”

BELTA Leaders Joined ELT@I Golden Jubilee Conference

Three BELTA leaders; Professor Arifa Rahman, Professor Rubina Khan and Mr Harunur Rashid Khan were invited as distinguished presenters, plenary speakers, featured speakers and panelists in the ELT@I Golden Jubilee Conference held in Amity University Campus, Delhi on 9-12 October 2019. The conference kicked off with a gala inaugural program at the university auditorium where state level guests, many internationally renowned ELT scholars, thousands of English teachers representing various levels of institutions from all across India and international publishers from home and abroad joined this landmark event with a great deal of professional spirit. During this 4-day conference, there were more than 700 presentations that included, keynote, lightning talk, plenary, featured, colloquium, panel discussions etc.

The theme at the conference was ‘Right to English’ which was significantly highlighted in many deliberations with an extensive gamut of information and explanations by many distinguished researchers. This conference can certainly be considered for its highly significant contributions towards many new ideas and innovations in the 21st century ELT pedagogy, practice and research which appeared to be very relevant; specifically in the South Asian contexts.

BELTA has been Awarded Hornby Trust Teacher Association (TA) Project 2019-2020

Bangladesh English Language Teachers Association will lead a project entitled “Connecting Underprivileged Children through Cross Age Teaching: A Hand-in-hand ELT Approach” during the year 2019-2020 under the scheme managed by British Council on behalf of A.S. Hornby Educational Trust. The project is an extension of an existing coursework instructed by the team leader of this current project at her workplace where soon to be graduates do peer teaching to the freshers of English department since 2016. To take the next step further in order to provide enjoyable English learning experience to the deprived ones of the society, under BELTA Hornby Trust TA Project, 6 students of the institution will teach at a school, primarily established for educating underprivileged children of textile and garments workers, at the outskirt of Dhaka during the first three months of 2020 incorporating baseline and follow-up survey and daylong training. The team includes 6 student teachers, Ms. Rabeya Binte Habib (Team Leader), Dr Akhter Jahan (Hornby Alumni 2011-2012) under the guidance of BELTA President: Dr Rubina Khan, as the Advisor, Dr Arifa Rahman as material developer and Immediate Past President, BELTA: Mr Harunur Rashid Khan as material developer and teacher trainer.

BELTA Teacher-Development Programme

BELTA YL SIG Workshops at PayPen School

BELTA Teacher Development programme in partnership with Playpen School was held at PlayPen School, Dhaka on 29 October 2019. This professional development programme was facilitated by Dr Hema Ramanathan, ELT-Author & Teacher Educator, and Ms. Bidisha Roy Das, Former CEO of Creatnet Education from Delhi, India. There were two PD sessions taking place simultaneously on two different areas. These PD sessions were designed to help primary English teachers to step up their teaching-learning strategies in the classroom. There were fair spread of participants from PlayPen School, Agroni Education Foundation, American College, Banani Bidda Niketon, Aga Khan School, DPS STS School, Kurmitola School and College, Daffodil International School and Viquarunessa School, Dhaka.

The first session was on “POEM (LSRW)” where the trainer addressed the need and ways to use poems. Teachers are generally most hesitant about teaching poems, among all the genres, to teach English. They prefer to ‘study’ poems rather than view them as lyrics, meant to be recited or sung. They are also unclear about using poems to teach the four skills of listening, speaking, reading and writing. This interactive workshop addressed these concerns of teachers, focusing on the unique features of poetry to reconcile seeming contradictions. Flexible grouping and classroom management strategies were also modelled in this session.

The second workshop was on “Theatre and textbooks in the English Classroom”. In this workshop, the trainer strategized accessing stories, poems and plays in English textbooks to make theatrical activities an inclusive and exhilarating experience for students and teachers.

The facilitator with the participants at workshop

The participants enjoyed the workshops. The sessions were interactive, thought-provoking and catered to building critical skills of the participants.

Teaching Writing Workshop at Ideal Commerce College

A two-hour workshop on Teaching Writing was organised by BELTA at the Ideal Commerce College, Dhaka. The program was held on Friday, November 1, 2019. It started at 10 AM and ended with a tea break. The program was facilitated by BELTA President Dr Rubina Khan, Professor, English at the University of Dhaka and Dr Sonia Sharmin, Assistant Professor, English, East West University. The program started with Dr Rubina Khan sharing some recent findings about teaching writing and some techniques about enhancing writing skills.

Dr Sonia Sharmin shared some written scripts with the participants and discussed the strengths and weaknesses of those scripts. Participants shared their opinions too. Later on, participants were asked to write a paragraph on a similar topic on their own.

Following this, those scripts were collected and shared among the participants for open discussion. 27 participants from Ideal Commerce College, Ideal International School and College, Viqarunnessa Noon School and College, YWCA Higher Secondary Girls School, Effective English Development Program, Munshiganj attended the program themselves.

The participants were enthusiastic and responsive as they enjoyed the session. The participants wanted to implement the techniques in their classrooms.

“In Remembrance: Yoshiko Cornwell”

Japanese-born Yoshiko was married to Dr Steve Cornwell, one of the pioneering leaders of the THT (Teachers Helping Teachers) forum. During one of the early THT programmes, Yoshiko accompanied Steve and the THT team to Bangladesh. During the three-day BELTA-THT teacher development event held at Presidency University, the young Yoshiko, sweet and ever-smiling was an instant hit with the student volunteers. Her level of English was not that high, but that did not prevent her from talking non-stop to her new friends. The students were quite curious as to how she interacted with her American English-speaking husband. They soon found out that both spoke Japanese.

Though it was a short visit, BELTA was impressed with the sweetness and simplicity of this Japanese lady who became an instant friend of Bangladesh. She appreciated the people, the food and the culture. Yoshiko passed away on 20 August, 2019. She was married to Steve for nearly 20 years – which Steve said during her memorial service was “twenty years too short!” To think that the lovely, lively Yoshiko is no more is something difficult to grasp. Our hearts go out to Steve Cornwell – may he have the strength to bear this irreparable loss. And we pray that Yoshiko, sweet and lovely, will be given a blessed place in heaven!

“For your Classroom”

Storytelling Activity Using Role-play

This storytelling activity will enable students to process their story ideas. The learning outcome is for students to write more coherent stories.

Objectives:

By the end of the class, students will be able to:

1. come up with a story idea on the given topic and create a basic plan;
2. plan and draft ideas for narrative piece (stepping into the character’s shoes).

Skills to be developed:

Creative thinking skills to:

1. generate novel ideas and considering new perspectives;
2. use brainstorming to generate new ideas;
3. apply existing knowledge to generate new ideas;
4. create original work and ideas, use existing work and ideas in new ways.

Students will exchange thoughts, messages and information effectively through interaction.

Students will:

watch a video;
write a narrative;
plan and write the beginning of a story titled “Trapped”;
articulate experience and express what is thought, felt and imagined;
use a range of appropriate vocabulary.
Resources:

- Video clip
- Handout
- Overhead
- Projector
- Print Materials

Activity time: 35-40 mins

Pre-class preparation:

Download the video of Thailand cave incident

Procedure:

Ice Breaking:

Write the word “Trapped” and ask students. “What words and ideas come to their minds?”

Ask students what was the football team doing in the cave in the first place?

Delivery:

Give students 10 minutes to come up with their own story around the given topic “Trapped” and to note down its key elements.

Ask students to imagine themselves to be one of the teenagers trapped in the cave or one of the rescuers. This will help them plan a story from their point of view using the five-part story structure.

Five-part story structure:

- Introduction
- Development
- Complication
- Climax
- Resolution

Draw students’ attention to the need for their plot to ‘go somewhere’ (it must be more than just a series of observations and have an effective beginning and ending.

Remind them of the characteristics of a good narrative (story) that it should:

- be clear and interesting;
- have enough information;
- use descriptive words to paint a picture of the scenes to the reader;
- use time order to help your reader follow the story;
- keep no more than one or two main ideas;
- include a problem or difficulty that has to be overcome by keeping the plot simple;
- stick to one main location or setting for your story;

Once students have drafted their idea, they should discuss it with a partner following the checklist (Pair work).

Differentiation:

All students must come up with a story idea of their own, and create a basic plan.

Most students should write a plan, add further detail and write a draft.

Some students could use the ideas provided as a springboard for writing several different drafts of stories or descriptions before evaluating what works and what doesn’t.

Give extra support:

1. by asking learners questions directly and offering some answers, in places.
2. by working with a selected group of less confident students to come up with share ideas, focusing perhaps on the narrative story. Give them a starter sentence, then work together to develop the sentence into a ‘dual narrative’

Follow-up/Closure Activities: How do you know what was and was not learned?

Feedback:

(Ticket out the door) Invite feedback from students and collect key phrases they will be taking home with them to be written on paper chits given.

H.W: Students complete writing the narrative “Trapped”.

Variations:

1. Students select articles on current events or a topic of interest.
2. Students research and provide a follow-up report on the story.

“Early Adolescents and the Role of a Teacher”

Early adolescence might be considered to be the ages between 9 and 14. At this stage a child’s physical changes generally begin with a growth spurt and soon many other physical changes occur that have influence on their psychological state and development. The children at this stage needs to be handled tenderly, for a little ignorance may damage a child’s natural flow of development, which in most cases remains unnoticed.

Early adolescents often face some common problems. At times they become victims of bullies and also turn to be the bullies. Sometimes, they know what they are doing, and sometimes they are eccentric to their surroundings. At the same time, they know the differences between good and bad, and they also fail to distinguish between the two. As they spend most of the time of a day at school, teachers have a very important role and responsibility to help them for their mental growth.

In order to teach them values we often emphasize learning to respect, appreciate, be polite, to be honest, to behave well, to be courteous, to share and care and so on. However, with a greater priority, we need to teach them how to face the real world where bullying, cruelty, hatred etc. dwell with all the good values; yet they should know how they can remain calm and handle all odds smoothly and smartly save themselves from the bitter situation.

This kind of learning is more important than academic education, as it might happen a billion times in their life that they would be refused, disrespected, neglected, rejected, humiliated etc. and also may see sudden unexpected loss, change, betrayal etc. Each little disappointment limits the aspiration of a tender heart. They should be taught to receive and handle even the worst situation to prevent blocks like frustration in their lives. Moreover, who doesn’t know that the children at this stage tend to rely on their teachers more than their parents in most cases. For this, it is very much essential that a teacher deals with early adolescents with high level of patience so that the nourishment of their mental growth is as much as needed.
